'The Strangers'

Invaders' Gifts Became Curse

White Man's Rum, Bible, Disease Wiped Out Indian's Way of Life

(This is the third article of "The Strangers," a searching report on the plight of B.C.'s native Indians.)

By G. E. MORTIMORE

Indians of British Columbia have travelled a short, rough road of less than 150 years from stone age to machine age. Some Eastern tribes have gone through a more gradual change of 300 to 400 years.

For all the Indians, the white invasion was—and still is—an ordeal. It has left scars and sore places in the Indian mind which persist today, and may not be soothed for generations.

. . . prestige undermined

The transition is still going on. Indians suspect that they have lost more than they have gained. They are in no hurry to convert themselves into exact replicas of white men.

The wonder and excitement that their ancestors felt on meeting Europeans has long since been replaced by distrust. History gives the Indians reason to be suspicious. The white man's gifts have often turned out to be curses.

Europeans imported many new things. The Spaniards brought horses, which spread northward from the Spanish colonies far in advance of white settlement. Russians, French, Dutch and English brought guns, carts and iron tools.

Guns and horses transformed hunting and warfare. Tribes of the plains, who had been limited to the distance they could travel on foot with dogs (their only domesticated animal) now found their range multiplied. They clashed in bloody battles for horses and hunting grounds. They began to wipe out the buffalo. The white men soon outdid them in slaughter.

Whole Nations Exterminated

Weak tribes who obtained guns became strong and aggressive. Whole nations were exterminated in inter-tribal wars. The demands of the trading posts and the aid of new weapons spurred the Indians to destroy the fish, game and fur-bearing animals that had been so numerous.

Both French and English in the eastern part of the continent allied themselves with Indians and used them as pawns. Samuel de Champlain took the side of the Algonquins against their enemies the Iroquois. The Iroquois became the allies of the British and Dutch, and middlemen in British trade with more remote tribes.

The British incited the Iroquois to war against inland tribes, in order to damage the French fur trade. The French tried to woo the Iroquois away, by intrigue and war. "The frontier was in an almost continual state of excitement, due to raids and massacres which were the bloody consequences of these rivalries," says historian Carl Wittke.

After Britain conquered New France, the Royal proclamation of 1763 drew a line running northeast to southwest down North America along the crest of the Appalachians. White settlement was not supposed to go beyond it. Everything west of the line was to be a vast Indian reserve, subject to imperial control. But this plan was shattered by the westward march of traders and settlers.

In some places, the Indians fought bitterly to defend their lands. Elsewhere they yielded quietly to force and fraud and the pressure of a stronger civilization; or simply made the newcomers welcome without realizing that the white men were numerous enough to overwhelm them.

To obtain the new tools, Indians flocked to trading posts and trading ships. Some of them settled in villages near the forts, under more crowded and insanitary conditions than they had known before. They abandoned their old hunting and fishing life, and went trapping to get the furs they could exchange for white man's goods.

Trapping scattered the people and weakened their community spirit. They developed a liking for European clothes, tools and starchy foods and forgot how to gather and make their own. They began to suffer from malnutrition.

Invisible Freight: Disease

White traders and explorers carried an invisible freight of smallpox, measles, flu and other diseases. All these infections were new to the Indians and Eskimos, whose bodies had built up no resistance to them.

Natives died in tens of thousands, as the imported plagues ran like fire through the wandering tribes of the Atlantic coast and eastern woodlands, the warrior maize-growers of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Valley, the buffalo-hunters of the plains, the hardy seal-killers of the Arctic, the shy people of the northern woods and barren lands, and the well-nourished fishermen and sea-raiders of the Pacific Coast.

Medicine men again tried to fight disease and social change, and failed, bringing discredit on themselves and on the entire social order.

Many of those in the vanguard of the European advance were rough, cruel and ignorant men. "The fur traders, with one or two notable exceptions, thought only of multiplying skins," says anthropologist Diamond Jenness, "and regarded with . . . veiled contempt the institutions and customs of the native. They appraised the Indians, not by his character or tribal standing, but by the number of skins he could bring in. . . ."

The traders often undermined the prestige of tribal chiefs, and in some cases named their own chiefs. Tribal discipline began to break down.

Among the most powerful instruments of change and destruction to the Indian way of life were those time-honored European gifts to primitive races: "Rum and Bibles."

Most authorities agree that alcohol was unknown among the Indians of North America. Indians were bewildered by their first sight of its effects. Some chiefs warned that it was a device of enemies to dull the wits.

But they soon developed a taste for English rum and French brandy, which traders fed them by hundreds of gallons. The result was widespread debauchery. Trading companies

WITNESS CALLED THIEF, FORGER, BLACKMAILER

Eversfield, Sturdy Flayed By QC at Sommers Trial

VANCOUVER (CP)—A defence lawyer Wednesday branded the Crown's chief witness in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial as a thief, a forger and a blackmailer and said "unscrupulous persons" were behind the case which involves a former provincial Social Credit cabinet minister.

* * *

Veteran lawyer Alfred Bull, Q.C., summing up for Charles D. Schultz and the C. D. Schultz Limited timber engineering firm, said this was "no ordinary prosecution." His clients, he said, had become "the victims of a most disgraceful undertaking carried out by unscrupulous persons."

TWO SINGLED OUT

He referred frequently to chief Crown witness Charles Eversfield and the documents Eversfield took when he left his bookkeeper's job with Pacific Coast Services Limited in 1955. He referred also to Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy who took Eversfield and his documents to the attorney-general and to former Liberal MLA Gordon Gibson, wealthy B.C. timberman.

SMEAR CAMPAIGN

Gibson, Mr. Bull said, had engaged in a "smear campaign" against the Social Credit government with respect to its handling of government timber licences. For two years the public had been besieged by press stories of allegations by Sturdy and Gibson against former lands and forest minister Robert Sommers, now the central figure in the case.

ULTERIOR MOTIVES

"You are not trying a prosecution begun in the ordinary way," Mr. Bull told the jury. "You are trying a case instigated for ulterior motives by others and I'll name them . . . Gordon Gibson, Eversfield, Sturdy and the Vancouver Sun."

The defence lawyer described Eversfield as "vermiculatious—wormlike—in his movements and one who cannot be pinned down." He said it was important to the jury's appraisal of the man to keep in mind that he "was a thief, he was a forger, he was a blackmailer and he was an accomplice of (H. W.) Gray on the assumption that Gray was engaged in the commission of a crime."

HELPED GRAY

Mr. Bull said he did not take the position Wilson Gray, head of the Pacific firm, engaged in a crime. There was testimony that money he passed to Sommers were loans. But Eversfield had said he believed illegal acts were going on, yet he had helped Gray in their commission. This was an indication of the man's character.

Schultz' counsel opened his summation in the 61st day of the record trial after completion of a jury address by E. E. (Ted) Hinkson, counsel for John Gray, brother of H. W. Gray and an executive of the Pacific firm.

Mr. Hinkson told the jury the Crown had failed to show any motive why John Gray would participate in the alleged conspiracy.

RUINED MAN

Mr. Bull again presented his client to the jury as a "ruined man."

He said "when Sturdy and Eversfield went to the attorney-general late in 1955, Sturdy told the attorney-general that his allegations could not be proved. That was still the case today. Nothing had changed despite a police investigation ordered by the attorney-general.

Mr. Bull said during 1955 Sturdy paid Eversfield a total of $1,700 for expenses and in loans.

NOT A SMALL SUM

He told the jury that $1,700 was not a small sum for a young lawyer to pay out "unless he could see it coming back in dividends."

"And don't forget that at the blackmail interview with Gray, Eversfield said that if they wouldn't pay $10,000 he knew someone who would," the lawyer said. "And I suggest it was Gordon Gibson—he had the money."

Mr. Bull continues his summation today (Thursday).

Getting Ready for School

School begins again Wednesday for 20,000 Greater Victoria youngsters after two months of respite from books and studies. Facing school opening with mixed emotions shared by many youngsters is Johnny McPhail, 841 Leslie Drive. A man's got to get an education, but it's tough to say goodbye to summer fun. New regulations on suitable dress for school and stricter attitude to lazy students will be adopted this year by authorities. The rules for dress resulted from a student poll.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

New Propeller Unveiled

150-Knot Ships!

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The navy yesterday took the wraps off a revolutionary new propeller design which, officials said, could lead to development of ships with "unlimited" speed.

Officials spoke of ships, with radical new hulls, travelling the oceans at 100-to-150 knots (115-170 miles an hour).

Using principles similar to those in aircraft propeller design, the new development was said to be as important to ship propulsion as the jet engine has been to aircraft.

Capt. E. A. Wright, commander of the David Taylor model basin here, where the propeller was developed, said that the navy will "no longer be speed-limited as far as propulsive capacities are concerned."

The propeller, designed by Marshall P. Tulin of the office of naval research, was described by the navy as "unprecedented in the past 30 years of hydrodynamics accomplishments."

Sixth Straight Day

16,000 Shells Blast Quemoy

Quemoy batteries quickly took up the artillery challenge hurled by emplacements at Weitou, on the mainland 7½ miles northeast of the Nationalist island stronghold.

The defence ministry did not disclose details of this Quemoy-Weitou duelling, but said the Reds dropped more than 16,000 shells in the Quemoy area between 5.45 a.m. Wednesday and 12.48 a.m. today.

But a threat of danger to Nationalist China from the sea might be more immediate.

The defence ministry announced Wednesday 5,000 Red Chinese small craft had sailed for the strait from the Chu Shan Islands, 300 miles north of Formosa.

This raised some fears that the Reds might try invasion of some of the smaller, lightly defended Nationalist islands off the mainland.

Though the United States is committed by treaty to help defend Formosa against any invasion, President Eisenhower left up in the air at a Washington press conference Wednesday the question of whether the United States would fight to keep the Communists from conquering the offshore islands.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

ANOTHER uniformed cowboy in the New Westminster police force has been rebuked for loosing bullets on the street.

This time a bullet happy cop let fly at a speeding 16-year-old driver, hoping to puncture his tire and bring him to a halt.

New Westminster police commission promptly served notice that officers were not to draw their guns except in self-defence.

The commission had reason to be sensitive. Four years ago an airman was killed by police bullets fired at a speeding car.

Death is a heavy penalty to pay for speeding or taking a car without the owner's consent. A bullet fired to stop a car can easily go astray and kill the driver or a passing pedestrian.

Even to stop a desperate criminal, gunplay is a tactic of doubtful value. The game isn't just cops and robbers, as the kids used to play it on a vacant lot. It is a three-cornered game called cops, robbers and bystanders.

* * *

Something I never can understand is the spectacle of cops letting drive with their pistols at fleeing bank robbers. This happens every now and then in North American cities.

The robber only takes money, but the cop who fires at the robber may take a life. And the life may be that of a child who has just toddled in to open a junior savings account, or an old lady who wants to make a Christmas club payment.

The free-and-easy attitude toward firearms, which is something inherited from frontier days, has always been more characteristic of the United States than of Canada. Maybe the American Revolution had something to do with it.

Every U.S. cop, in his day-dreams, probably fancies himself a United States marshal shooting it out with Jesse James.

In recent years, some of the spirit of Tombstone and Boot Hill has begun seeping across the border.

We don't want it here. Our gendarmes should be sternly ordered to keep their holsters buttoned. If they want to play "High Noon," they should join the Little Theatre.

passed rules against liquor trading, but such rules were often ignored.

D. W. Harmon, assistant in charge of the affairs of the Northwest Company at Fraser Lake in what is now British Columbia, described in his journal how the Indians had watched the men of the fort celebrate a feast day.

"January 1, 1811. This being the first day of another year, our people have passed it, according to the custom of the Canadians, in drinking and fighting.

"Some of the principal Indians of the place desired us to allow them to remain at the fort that they might see our people drink. As soon as they began to be a little intoxicated and to quarrel among themselves, the natives began to be apprehensive that something unpleasant might befall them also.

HID THEMSELVES

"They therefore hid themselves under beds and elsewhere, saying that they thought the white people had run mad, for they appeared not to know what they were about . . . It was the first time they had seen an intoxicated person."

Next year, recorded Father A. G. Morice in his "History of the Northern Interior of British Columbia," several Carrier and Sekani headmen were invited to do away with the remnants on tables and "drink a flagon or two of spirits."

"Fateful flagon," wrote Father Morice rhetorically, "which once tasted was to swell into gallons and kegs, how many hundreds—if not thousands—of thy victims have been prematurely laid into the grave?"

MISGUIDED HELP

Devoted missionaries fought the whisky traders and gave medicine to natives who were dying of white man's diseases. But many authorities now believe that they did much damage as well, by destroying the native customs before the people had properly understood or accepted the alien ones.

Some Indians embraced Christianity, only to learn that white men did not always practice what they preached, that some white Christians were swindling rogues, and that in spite of the theory of the brotherhood of man, Europeans were not prepared to accept Indians on equal terms.

As a colonial power, France followed an easy-going policy toward the Indians, intermingling with them, pressing them to bring in more and more furs, and sometimes drawing up treaties with individual chiefs—but paying little attention to the Indians' legal rights.

BRITAIN'S METHOD

Britain's attitude was different. In North America, as in some other colonial territories, she recognized native title to the land. The first commissioner of Indian affairs was appointed in the colony of New York in 1696. The imperial government named superintendents of Indians affairs. These officers had authority to negotiate treaties with the Indians, in which each tribe or nation was approached as a sovereign power.

The Indians, few of whom could read or write, put their X's to agreements which handed over hundreds of thousands of square miles in exchange for small presents in cash and annual cash payments.

Until 1830 (later on the Pacific Coast) the Indians were left alone, except for the efforts of missionaries to help and convert them. The Indians were looked upon as a military problem. Representatives of the imperial army wooed them with gifts to be allies, or at least to stay neutral.

BIRTH OF RESERVES

Then the government launched a new policy of trying to break up the tribal organization, prohibit the sale of liquor, gather the Indians in communities and confine them to reserves. Indian affairs in the east were transferred to the civil authorities of Upper and Lower Canada—now Quebec and Ontario. But the Imperial government's custom of giving presents to the Indians continued in some areas until 1860.

After Confederation the Dominion secretary of state took control of Indian affairs. Additional treaties were signed in the west. When the buffalo of the plains had been wiped out, the government supplied a ration of meat to those who had been buffalo hunters.

BETTER THAN U.S.

The Indians found more stability and justice in Canada than they did in the United States. The annals of United States Indian policy are stained with blood, treachery and greed. Canada's record—none to savory in places—is pure by comparison.

Many of the treaties signed by agents of the British Crown with the Indians were flouted after the American Revolution by the land-hungry citizens of the new republic, who argued that they were not bound by any contract that a British king had made. But the Americans made treaties of their own and forgot those too. Solemn promises were broken time after time.

PUSHED OFF LAND

Indians were pushed off their land and herded into reserves in distant parts of the country; and when settlement reached them and another group of whites coveted their land or the gold on it, they were moved again, and again until (in the case of some tribes) they were hived away in a patch of desert.

Britain, followed by Canada, made more earnest efforts to keep promises to the Indians than the United States did. Canada was not troubled by the series of bitter, costly Indian wars that wracked the United States. But this country has no cause to feel smug. There were dark chapters in our own history, before and after Confederation.

Our Indians remain under government protection to this day; but they still have not recovered from the blows that white men dealt to their race in Canada's formative years.

SAME OLD STORY

Despite some attempts to care for the Indians and ban the liquor trade, the story of guns, disease and whiskey which began on the Atlantic seaboard repeated itself later on the Pacific Coast, when the Russians colonized Alaska, the Spanish, English and Americans began trading to the Queen Charlottes and the West Coast of Vancouver Island; and the Hudson's Bay Co. built a chain of coastal forts, including one at the southern tip of Vancouver Island.

There was an Indian, who had known no change
Who strayed content along a sunlit beach
Gathering shells. He heard a sudden strange
Commingled noise; looked up and groped for speech
For in the bay, where nothing was before
Moved in the sea, by magic, huge canoes,
With bellying cloth on poles and not one oar.
And fluttering colored signs and clambering crews.
And he, in fear, this naked man alone
His fallen hands forgetting all their shells,
His lips gone pale, knelt low behind a stone,
And stared and saw, and did not understand
Columbus' doom-burdened caravels
Slant to the shore, and all their seamen land.

Explain It Again

Sidney's Point Didn't Register

Village of Sidney is still having difficulty trying to explain to Public Works Minister Howard Green what is required in the way of small boat facilities at the local wharf.

The minister had previously written that he could see no need for improvements to existing facilities, because he understood there were enough marinas in the area to serve visiting yachtsmen.

Dr. C. H. Hemmings, chairman of the village council, wrote back to explain that what was required was a public wharf to accommodate the large number of yachts which were forced to pass through customs and immigration, and allow their passengers a few hours to visit the village.

"Facilities are so limited that on many occasions American boats have been requested to leave within 15 minutes of tie-up," Dr. Hemmings wrote. "When the new Washington State Ferries terminal is completed, it would appear to us that the old wharf at the foot of Beacon Avenue could be converted into a small boat anchorage for a relatively modest sum."

The minister replied:

"If the existing wharf is not required for customs purposes, consideration will be given to your request for development of a small boat harbor."

Dr. Hemmings was authorized to send another letter, pointing out that the main requirement was that "the existing wharf be improved to serve the Customs and Excise Branch more adequately . . ."

"I wonder if he will be able to understand it," said Commissioner T. A. Aiers.

"If it can be misconstrued, Green is the man to do it," said Commissioner A. A. Cormack.

Promise Exploded

Defence Minister George Pearkes has exploded a promise he made during last year's election campaign.

At that time, Mr. Pearkes promised extension of the Patricia Bay Airport runways, with work to start in the spring of 1958.

A letter from the minister to Sidney council said:

". . . Tenders will be called within the next few weeks for the rebuilding and strengthening of the present runways and taxiways at Patricia Bay Airport.

"Further consideration is being given to lengthening the runways, pending an agreement with the province as to the route to be taken for East Saanich Road."

Jet-Age Scouts

Marine Chutists Dive to Target

SAN DIEGO, Cal. (NANA)—A hand-picked group of marine volunteers are practising the latest technique in jet-age warfare above nearby Camp Pendleton—the stabilized free-fall parachute jump.

The marines, members of a parachute reconnaissance platoon, leap from the open cargo doors of R4D transport planes, spread their arms and legs and plummet 3,500 feet through the air for up to 20 seconds before pulling the rip cords on their parachutes when about 1,000 feet above ground.

The marines are being trained as reconnaissance scouts for behind-the-lines activity in time of war. High-speed jet fighter planes or attack bombers would zoom in under the enemy's radar screen, then quickly climb and allow the chutists to bail out.

The free fall would serve two purposes: Minimizing the tremendous jerk a parachute encounters when opened at high speed, and increasing the chances of reaching the ground without being seen, shot or captured.

The marines stabilize their free fall by extending their arms downward and outward, parting their legs about 2½ feet and throwing their heads back. They call this the "Delta position" because the angle of their arms resembles the Greek letter delta.

Then the chutists use their arms and "body English" to guide them as they drop at 150 feet a second. They become adept at aiming themselves at their target on the ground.

The commander of the company, Maj. Bruce F. Meyers, says the company makes 2,000 parachute jumps a year. It has had no fatality and few injuries.

First Lieut. D. J. Norris, a platoon leader, said in combat the scouts would carry a minimum of equipment on their leap behind the lines. They would bury their helmets and chutes, then live off the land, augmenting this with a few cold rations. They are armed with .45-calibre "grease gun" (M3A1) submachine guns.

Major Lord Takes Over

Lone Briton Shoulders the White Man's Burden

By NED MAKDISI

AMMAN (NANA) — Even pro-Nasser Jordanians smile when they see or hear Maj. Lionel Lord. Tall, with red hair and waxed moustache, he is more than willing to discuss the state of the world at his temporary headquarters in the lobby of the Philadelphia Hotel.

Waving his cane fiercely, Maj. Lord arrived in Amman on the heels of the British paratroops; he could no longer sit still in England and watch the British Empire evaporating like the snows of winter. He came at his own expense. He seems to be waiting for his regiment, but it is not certain that his regiment knows that Maj. Lord is waiting for them.

A member of the British Army reserve, Maj. Lord requested to be put on active duty. His request refused, he decided to come anyway, on his own expense.

Lord is dealing with the problems here one at a time. The other day he decided to run down to Aqaba to see whether supplies for the British troops in Amman were being moved out smoothly. When the British authorities had refused to provide transportation, Maj. Lord chartered a train and made the 250-mile journey in solitary grandeur.

Lord often observes that the people here have forgotten what a British officer stands for. "They must learn respect all over again," he says.

One recent night a bomb exploded near the centre of town. Jordanian army troops had screened off the blast area and nobody was being allowed through. Then came Maj. Lionel Lord. He simply rapped a few shoulders with his cane while shouting, "Stand aside!" Don't you know a British officer when you see one?" There was a chill moment of doubt—but Lord, who was not in uniform, did get through.

Lionel Lord appears to be in sharp disagreement with British officers here on the best solution to the present crisis.

The other night, discussing the situation in the bar of the Philadelphia Hotel with a few officers, he haughtily declared that what Nasser needed is a good "British" lesson; Britain according to Lord, must immediately occupy the whole Middle East area.

When an officer remarked that the paratroops will have to withdraw, sooner or later, and that the march of Arab nationalism is inevitable, Lord answered disgustedly, "Since when does an Arab tell a Britisher what to do with the Middle East?"

The betting odds on whether Lionel Lord will survive the crisis are running slightly in his favor.

Don't Shoot, Police Told

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—City policemen have been told they are not to use their guns except in cases of "extreme emergency," following an incident last week in which an officer fired at a tire of a car being driven at 75 miles an hour.

Police Chief Charles Mackie told police commission Tuesday he had issued the directive and had added the warning that use of guns otherwise than in self-defence may bring discredit and lawsuits.

In last week's incident a 16-year-old boy was arrested after a chase through several stop signs and was charged with criminal negligence. In a pursuit four years ago airman Ronald Byers was killed by one of 13 bullets fired by city police at a speeding car.

As a result of the Byers incident Constable Roy Hilker was ordered to pay $1,097 damages.

Climaxed U.S. Tour

Visit with Ike Treat for Cadet

A half hour with President Eisenhower early this month climaxed a de luxe tour of the United States by Victoria air cadet sergeant Gordon Newell, 2083 Byron.

Gordon, 18, was one of 25 air cadets picked from some 25,000 air cadets all across Canada who made the tour on an "exchange" basis with the United States Air Force.

He was nominated as the most efficient of the cadets in the Victoria Kinsmen's 89th Squadron.

An amateur photographer, Gordon had no time to get his camera when he learned the group would be meeting Eisenhower.

"We didn't have time," he said yesterday. "We were rushed into a bus and police motorcycles escorted us to the White House with screaming sirens."

But as he was right at the front of the group, Gordon took pictures for other members of the party. He is expecting copies of them this week.

"He was giving a speech to us about youth of the two countries meeting together to ensure peace for the future," he said.

The cadets stayed at expensive hotels most of the time they spent in the U.S., including the Waldorf Astoria in New York and the Statler in Washington, D.C.

Sends Carrier to Formosa

U.S. Reinforces Fleet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. navy yesterday ordered the aircraft carrier Essex, with about 80 planes aboard, to leave the Mediterranean and join the 7th Fleet in Pacific waters around Formosa.

The move came after President Eisenhower strongly linked the Nationalist Chinese islands of Quemoy and Matsu, under heavy air and artillery attack from Communist China, with the defence of Formosa and the Pescadores.

The 33,000-ton Essex is being accompanied by four destroyers, including the 2,800-ton Forest Sherman, latest of the navy's destroyer types.

The sailing of the Essex from its position with the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean represents the first reinforcement of American units in the western Pacific since the Chinese Communists began their heavy bombardment of Quemoy Island off the China coast.

Up to now, the United States has marshalled its forces already in the Pacific area and improved their deployment.

The Essex and the four accompanying destroyers will pass through the Suez Canal en route to the western Pacific.

The president, at a news conference held not long before the navy announced its action, refused to give a flat statement as to whether the United States would go to the defence of the Nationalist-held Quemoy and Matsu islands just off the Red China coast if they were assaulted by the Chinese Reds.

Timber Fire Out of Hand

PEACE RIVER, Alta. (CP)—Fanned by 40-mile-an-hour winds, a vast forest fire swept Tuesday into new Peace River timber stands and L. P. Gautier, area forestry superintendent, said only "rain and prayer" can stop the blaze.

Smoke from the fire, which now has consumed 150,000 acres of scrub bush, rolled 100 miles southwest and blotted out the sky over the town of Peace River.

Why the Haste?

VICTORIA and its municipal neighbors would be well advised to proceed cautiously in any action in what is at the moment an open-end situation regarding the bus franchises in this and the lower mainland region. Since the British Columbia Electric Company, Ltd., neglected to approach first the municipalities, as the franchise grantors, before making application to the Public Utilities Commission for a rate increase or other change in the present set-up, the municipalities under the standing agreements can ask the utilities body for any reasonable time they may require either to prepare argument on the rate application or to consider any possible transfer of the traction franchises to somebody else.

Victoria and the surrounding municipalities here may find themselves considerably in advance of their ratepayers if in the present circumstances they take precipitate action in any direction, and especially on the issue of public ownership. Unofficial mention of a pending private bid to the B.C. Electric for its bus assets, reputedly based on granting of higher rates by the utilities commission, may yet be confirmed by action or it may not. In either event the municipalities will be faced with the transit situation itself, no matter in whose hands it comes to rest. Rather than be pushed into any sudden move, they should take the proper time now to study this changing picture in all of its implications.

We have no hesitation in saying that the city and district councils would find themselves in difficulties with their own ratepayers if without an express mandate they proceed too far and too fast along any road leading to public ownership of the street traction system. If any "expert" advice is wanted on that score, Victoria could enquire of the city of Montreal, the city of Regina and quite a few others to whom public ownership once looked promising. The promises unfortunately were not fulfilled; and Montreal, with a population many times that of Victoria, stands as a classic Canadian example. Disregarding self-mesmerism with the supposed benefits of public ownership—for which the municipalities have no warrant whatever—there remains the immediate matter of the B.C. Electric's application for a rate increase in the face of declining traction revenues; and presumably after the settlement of that, the outcome of reputed negotiations for the sale to others of the traction assets and franchise privilege.

If Victoria refers to its written agreement with the B.C. Electric it will understand that not much can be done without its own consent; so haste is unnecessary as well as very unwise. That goes for the other municipalities in this area. In the last analysis the city and district councils concerned draw whatever final authority they have from their own ratepayers, and as yet these have not been consulted.

Merging the Forces

BEGINNING on January 1 next the medical services of the armed forces will be welded into one. This is said to be part of a unification scheme which began when in 1939 the dental corps was placed on a tri-service basis. Such a time lapse indicates it is more of an ambition than a scheme. The next corps to be marked for unification is reported to be the chaplain service, which doubtless also could profitably be combined.

Both these corps were mentioned for unified administration and service a few weeks ago by the Commons estimates committee studying defence expenditures. The committee's main object was to save money, and where duplication and overlapping can be eliminated so much the better. Other service agencies suggested by the committee as ripe for amalgamation were the recruiting branches and the provost corps. Perhaps they also are in line for unification.

Complete integration of the armed forces is said to be the goal of the defence department. Whether this is as wise as it may sound is debatable. When it comes to the fighting arms of the forces there are factors not so favorable. One alleged impediment to unification is the rivalries between the army, navy and air force. These are nevertheless quite understandable. They constitute the elan that makes each service efficient and worthwhile. The lessons of civilian "nationalization," as it were, should not be lost on military planners. Take away identity and pride suffers a serious setback.

There is ample warrant for combining the non-combatant branches of the armed forces, however. Their work should not suffer and in fact variety should add to its appeal. There cannot be other than a substantial saving also in administration costs, and this is an important consideration in these days of astronomical defence budgets.

The problem is different with the operational techniques of army, navy and air force. A tri-service being competent to cope with the tactics and strategy of all three phases of warfare, or on lower levels merely with the mechanics of each service in action, is more of an ideal than anything else. It does not seem practicable and in fact could be an illusion. Any move in this direction would require immense care lest it resulted in weakening the martial spirit of the separate services of which the country has every reason to be proud. One single fighting service is not necessarily a good thing.

Missing an Opportunity

THE nine premiers of Canada invited by British Columbia to attend centennial celebrations officially in the form of a "premiers' week" are no doubt busy men, preoccupied with their own provinces and the complexities on political and economic fronts. In any event, to a man they have now sent their "regrets" at being unable to pay a visit to British Columbia for the occasion. That result, in view of the pressures of public office, may be understandable but it also is to be regretted. Canada needs initiative in the art of getting together on a person-to-person basis, and there is no sphere in which this is more desirable than in the concept of an united people.

A century ago when British Columbia as an impoverished infant colony on the western flank of the vast continent joined Confederation it took its courage and faith in its hands. It heard much about its "sea of mountains," its impregnable passes, the wilderness and rocky desolation. Today, British Columbia does not have to defend itself from the misconceptions of long ago. It has proved up in the physical, social, economic and other facets of national life in a manner far beyond the highest expectations of the sturdy pioneers. But still there seems to be some degree of impregnability about the Rocky Mountains, although planes cross them day and night in a matter of minutes. The effect today may be psychological and not physical, but it is certainly to be regretted. B.C.'s centenary should be all Canada's pride.

Interpreting the News

India Reticent in Debate

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IF Arab nationalism were the only big problem in Asia and the Middle East today, the United Nations would have relatively clear sailing in its future mediation efforts.

But there are other tangles whose complications occasionally rise to the surface during UN debates and offer a reminder that a set of principles advocated for one area would not be acceptable in someone else's territory.

India, for example, as a leading Asian neutralist, has long been prominent at the UN in mediation efforts between East and West. But during the current emergency UN assembly session on Middle East problems its part has not been too prominent.

It is true that Indian delegate, Arthur Lall, made an important speech to the assembly in which he stressed the need for recognition of the wave of Arab nationalism, but his delegation has tended to keep away from promoting some form of UN intervention during a transition period between disorder and stability.

The Indians' expressed position is that a UN force might be used in some way to support continuance of Western interests in the Middle East. But some outside opinion holds to the belief that the reason for this stand lies much closer to home.

In the 11 years of its independence Prime Minister Nehru's Hindu state has been at odds with its Moslem neighbor, Pakistan, over possession of the fertile state of Kashmir. And during the first months after the two states were created out of British India there was fighting.

Since 1948 the UN has had an observer group along the uneasy border and there is a feeling that Nehru would not want the precedent of a stronger UN force in another area —such as Jordan and Lebanon—taken up by Pakistan in the UN and applied to the Kashmiri situation.

At every assembly the Kashmir question results in a long debate between India and Pakistan, with no particular result so far. But should India prominently back extension of the UN's role in the present Jordan-Lebanon case, Pakistan might use this as ammunition during the coming regular assembly. The Pakistanis, who have supported the Western position in the Middle East debate, would be able in such a case to quote India's own words in pressing for similar action in Kashmir.

While the Kashmir issues are extremely complicated, it is thought that India does not want a plebiscite of the predominantly Moslem population of Kashmir to settle its future. Pakistan has called in the past for such a vote under supervision—or protection—of the UN, confident of course that the population would vote to join the Moslem state.

"You can make it"

Thinking Aloud — Gerald Waring

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

AMONG the effects of an army captain who died recently was a tin of emergency rations he carried in the Boer War. The London Times captioned the news item "vintage bully beef" and it was, apparently as edible as in its heyday. That is not to say a great deal, perhaps, depending as it does on one's taste and for countless veterans still alive bully beef has connotations.

I noticed the prudent use of language in describing the sampling of this legacy, which was found "to be as palatable as army rations are expected to be." What a stirring of memory that causes. It is a reminder, for instance, that army rations of 1914 were not meant to be enticing. And assuredly they were not.

* * *

Looking back it seems almost incredible that troops should have been expected to put up a good show while indifferently fed. Even allowing that vitamins and proteins and calories had not been dinned into the public conscience, it should have been obvious that a well-fed soldier would be an asset not lightly to be disregarded. That particular war was so static, also, there should have been no difficulty about supply lines. But apparently when the quartermaster-general made out an order for so many million tins of bully beef that exhausted his mental resources.

Every man carried an emergency ration but all too often the contents were akin to his ordinary rations. Every soldier of 1914-18 must have consumed enough bully beef to stock the Cariboo. For long periods at a time it was his staple food. I cannot remember any great variation. If not in individual tins then the bully was served as a standby stew, as with that other concoction, mutton. With tea and jam and bread, half-a-loaf only sometimes, this was frequently his daily diet. Nutrition was a word unknown to the quartermaster-general.

Nor, come to think of it, was even that type of food well prepared. It is much different nowadays but army catering schools hadn't then been invented. The cook was invariably a castoff from a platoon that wanted rid of him, whose sole artistic achievement was to fry an egg. Sometimes he couldn't do that properly, although perhaps he could be excused since eggs were but an occasional luxury and he had little practice.

* * *

In lovelorn columns the way to a man's heart is said to be via his stomach, but alas 40 years ago the QMG never read lovelorn columns. Since men are what they eat, however, there was a pathetic lack of imagination about the military diet of the 1914-1918 era. Troops frequently were debilitated and made easy victims of disease simply because of scanty and ill-considered fare. The marvel is that they stuck to their guns so well.

It was a Magersfontein Ridge tin of bully beef that was opened recently, and the incident has set me wondering if a certain tin still lies in a Near Eastern nullah waiting for some researcher of the future to test its edibility. It was thrown there in disgust by a soldier who had just opened a parcel from home. Poor loving mother who packed the parcel! How was she to know her son had been living on bully beef for days on end and that the tin she sent him would be absolutely the last straw.

Reports from Ottawa

ONE may confidently assume that there are X million Balts, Jews, Ukrainians, Poles, Georgians, Armenians and others who would quit Russia if they could, and probably would not be adverse to coming to Canada.

One may also assume, perhaps not so confidently, that there are X hundred Doukhobors of Russian descent who have convinced themselves that they would be better off if they returned to the land of their forefathers.

The Iron Curtain imprisons the Balts, the Jews, and the others. The Soviet government refuses to permit its citizens and captive peoples to emigrate.

There has never been any Canadian government bar to the Doukhobors going any place they want. Some went to South America; didn't like it and came back. Now the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors say they want to emigrate to Russia. And far from forbidding their migration, the Canadian and British Columbian governments have offered to pay their passage and give them money to re-establish themselves in Russia.

We should not permit the rest of the world to remain in ignorance of this comparison.

* * *

There are two big if's in connection with the proposed migration. One is: will they go? The other is: will the Kremlin accept them?

The good faith of the Sons of Freedom in this matter of emigration is open to considerable question. The generally accepted view is that the test will come Sept. 30, the deadline for their signing up for a one-way trip to Russia. But it's less well appreciated that the whole 2,500 of them could sign up, at the same time renouncing their Canadian citizenship, and never budge an inch.

They would have no difficulty finding reasons to balk. For example, the government will not inhumanely force the Doukhobors' teen-age children to accompany their parents to Russia if the children elect to remain in Canada. The Doukhobors could refuse to leave without them, and the migration could collapse amid recriminations against the government for having required them to abandon children in order to flee Canadian "tyranny" for the "freedom" of Soviet Siberia.

Unless they actually leave the country, their renunciation of citizenship will be meaningless. The government cannot deport native-born Canadians.

* * *

The Soviet attitude towards the proposed migration is still not clear, but one might logically assume that the propaganda value of X hundred Canadians seeking sanctuary in Siberia would have an appeal the Kremlin would find difficult to resist.

I tend to make light of the comment of one Soviet diplomat here, that "They're blowing up your railways and power lines. Why should we take them in to blow up ours?" More valid, I think, is the flat-footed comment of the Russian news agency correspondent in Ottawa: "I think that if they come to our country they will do what they are told."

But whether they actually go, or whether they remain in Canada under what they might describe as duress, they will provide the Soviets with propaganda material to use against the West in the uncommitted areas of the world—in Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

That is why we should tell the story first—the whole unhappy story of terrorism, civil disobedience, and the government's magnanimous offer to finance the migration. We should tell it where the Russians will tell their version—and also to the captive peoples of the Soviet Union, whose emigration hopes rest not on government aid, but on avoidance of a border guard's bullet.

Radar on The Thames

U.K. INFORMATION SERVICE

LONDON is to have a harbour radar system fitted by Decca which will be one of the most advanced in the world. The new radar station is a variation of the type being fitted at Liverpool, Southampton and Hamburg.

The Decca harbour radar, type 33, to be used in this Thames navigation service, is a high-definition, x-band equipment using an aerial of six foot span. Two separate transmitters and receivers with remotely-controlled changeover switching arrangements make sure that operation is continuous.

The Port of London Authority is building new harbour offices at Gravesend. The building is designed round the operations room which will be a port operating centre—collecting, sorting and providing ships with navigational information coverng the river from The Nore to London Bridge. The scanner of the first radar will be on the roof of the new building and the display will give the operations room a detailed picture covering some five miles of river.

Later, further radar stations could be set up to feed additional displays — in fact the entire river from the seaward limit to the Royal Docks could be shown on eight radar displays at one central position.

The section of the river to be covered by the first radar station has an average traffic of 80 ships each way every 24 hours of the day.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

ONE of my summer cottage neighbors notices that during the summer, up at the lake, he does not need his glasses nearly as much as he does in town, during the working year.

He has often explained it to me.

"In the city," he says, "I spend eight hours a day in a confined space, in an office, where my normal focus is a matter of 20 or 30 feet down to two feet. My bifocals serve me well for that sort of life. But when I get up here to the cottage, in the wide open spaces, my eyes seem to relax, my vision expands. Except when I am doing something like painting a chair or carrying in stove wood, I hardly ever need my glasses."

Last week he was walking fondly around his rocky premises, idly doing nothing, when he saw a stick lying on the ground, a dead branch, obviously, that had fallen off a tree.

"That branch," he said to himself, "looks exactly like a snake. It might give the women a start, if they came by . . ."

He reached down and picked up the stick.

It was a snake.

He flung it, he says, about 40 feet by sheer sudden reflex action.

He wears his glasses all the time now.

Letter from London

The Office And the Man

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

IF anyone happens to be interested in the meaning of tradition in the modern world, they may get a glimmer of it on the bridge of a warship glancing at the list of captains of other ships bearing the same name. Talking to a young cruiser captain in the last war—although young in years he looked a great deal younger—I asked if there were not occasions when he felt a little awed by responsibility. I have forgotten the names on the board but I do remember that they included Horatio Nelson and others who made it read like a naval who's who.

"They seem to keep you company" said the young captain. "They do help. That is why tradition means so much in the navy."

I had something of the same feeling when Lord Justice Goddard announced his resignation to take effect before the new law term begins in September. He is probably the outstanding example of the office making the holder. Lord Goddard was a successful barrister, but very few people had heard of him when he was elevated to the bench. When he was appointed Lord Chief Justice of England shortly after the end of the war there was some outspoken criticism by lawyers. One of his outstanding virtues was that he was not a political appointee and it was conceded that although he made his mark as a barrister in commercial law, his experience on the bench had shown a marked ability to master the added intricacies of criminal law. It was conceded that he was a gentleman of talent but not universally admitted that he was the stuff of which great Lord Chief Justices are made.

It was at this point that the shades of the great holders of the office surrounded him—and when he announced his retirement after twelve years as Britain's supreme judge there was no doubt that he made a place for himself in legal history as one of the truly great Lord Chief Justices of all time.

The reason is bound up in the mists of time. By tradition the Lord Chief Justice is the law of England as far as the layman is concerned. He stands between the little man and the Crown, between parliament and people like a grand referee in a rough game. He may seek to evade his responsibilities as some have done and be content with literal day-by-day interpretation of the laws of the land; or he may use his office for the good of the nation by making pronouncements and warnings which strike fear into the hearts of upstart bureaucrats.

* * *

Lord Goddard took office at a time when wartime laws and regulations were still in full force—and the need for many of them had passed. It was the time when the new socialist government was using wartime acts and powers to achieve political ends. The welfare state created a vast new army of civil servants many of them recruited from wartime departments trained in acting ruthlessly and often heartlessly, which could be justified in war but not in peace. Laws and regulations were flowing out of Westminster and Whitehall in a flood which all but drowned experienced lawyers trying to keep pace.

Many are the little bureaucrats who suffered under his lash. When the editor of a notorious scandal sheet was sent to jail for contempt of court and the company owning the paper was fined he warned the directors that the arm of the law was long enough to reach out after them. It stopped some of the most unsavory aspects of British journalism. He verbally flogged magistrate's clerks for exerting undue influence with a lay bench, and at the time of the labor party's suspension of capital punishment he warned the government solemnly that they were acting in breach of the law. Parliament can amend the law but it cannot defy it.

Lord Goddard was outspoken in his detestation of sexual perversion, in cases affecting cruelty to children, and of drunken drivers. He was an advocate of flogging in certain cases and his outspokenness was largely instrumental in keeping certain categories of murder as capital offences. He was quick to praise police officers who deserved it, and sharp to rebuke if their conduct so justified. Of all the judges on the English bench none was more willing to admit that he had been wrong if occasion demanded, and administratively he did a great deal to speed the processes of law and cut unnecessary red tape.

He will be a hard man to replace. If ever a tradition existed that the position of Lord Chief Justice should be a political appointment Lord Goddard himself has created one of the most potent arguments why it should not be and even his most outspoken critics at the time of his appointment have mellowed to the point of admitting that the office made the man. For the layman Lord Goddard will remain for a long time as the majesty of the law rising in all its strength to defend rather than to oppress—a manifestation of justice at its best remembering not only the criminal but the victim, not only the government but the people.

Letters to the Editor

All About Sweeping

I realize that sweeping looks dull and prosaic. Not inspiring. Nor perhaps worthy of newspaper publication? Nevertheless, vital to living. Something to lean on momentarily. Honest and honorable. Driving away the dust of our existence.

It can be exciting on occasion. Sweep and the world sweeps with you. Let the dust lie and you dwell alone.

Few relish sweeping. Some think it's debilitating. Too lowly. Smacking of the floor, floury. Sweeping is not their dish.

To really do the job well: Turn on the radio, if you have one. Waltz time is preferable. This enables you to take long rhythmic strokes. A must.

Yes, it can be exciting. There's nothing like the end of a broom. You can rock 'n' roll if you wish. Rock the broom and roll away the dust.

Try it some time. It's for tired tempers!

Tree Farm Licences

Applications have been made by a pulp mill for a very large number of tree farm licences, taking in many thousands of acres. If these licences are granted (there being so many of them) it will be goodbye to probably the best part of B.C.

The vast acreage applied for does not seem to have been surveyed but marked off by certain watersheds, inlets and lakes and rivers.

Was not the idea of a tree farm intended to help the small logger, and he certainly would be called on when applying for the licence to give the acreage and exact position, also the scheme was to give work, and help the small settlements along the coast; now a large company is trying to take the acreage for itself; it is unthinkable if we let them do it. I doubt if it will be even good business for the company in the long run as the people of B.C. will not forget, and will later see their folly, and injustice to the coming generation in allowing such a state of affairs to have happened, and may feel justified in probably taking back more than is due them.

No doubt wages are too high and this state of affairs effects other non-related companies and has the effect of long arm acquisition if we allow it; high and higher wages being partly responsible for this urge to acquire much more than is reasonable.

Whole islands are asked for in the "tree farm licence application," all of Turnour Island, all of Union Island, Dowager Island, all of Louise Island, Queen Charlotte District, all of Denny Island, much around Phillips Arm (there is good fishing there), and in Florence Peninsular, Don Peninsular, Mathieson Channel, etc.

We ought to know how many million acres, if millions there be, that this company is trying to obtain a lease for and if it is to be held tax free, and if so for how many years.

She Stood Alone

It was with regret that I learned from your appreciative editorial of Dorothy Thompson's retirement from active journalism. Her knowledgeable, indeed classical, columns will certainly be missed. Her astute analyses of world events were the product of keen historical insight, mature judgment and remarkable powers of observation. She was one of the rare members of her profession who understood the facts of her time and through them interpreted and delineated the course of history.

It is perhaps significant that the last great concern of Miss Thompson was the cause of Arab-American understanding. Here she boldly championed realistic acceptance of Arab aspirations and repeatedly warned of the dangers and pitfalls inherent in the Middle Eastern policies of the Western powers. Her warnings unhappily went unheeded. The crises developed precisely as she predicted they would.

It always appeared curious to me the scant attention accorded Dorothy Thompson's opinions by editorial writers and other commentators. Rarely have I encountered even a token recognition of her views. Indeed most of the time she stood alone amidst the great churn of journalistic output. But if she stood alone it was not in some lofty ivory tower. It was rather the position of standing far enough off to get a larger view of events. Her columns were hardly ever popular. But popularity and truth are by no means twin brothers.

Dorothy Thompson was much more than a reporter. She was in my opinion a political philosopher, one of the few ever to rise from the profession of journalism. Where she is going to be missed most, it seems to me, is in the ranks of the ordinary newspaper reader in both countries.

Why Evacuate

There is an old proverb which comes to mind on reading the civil defence evacuation scheme in Saturday's paper. It is "better sit and rue than flit and rue." Congested highways and jammed-in traffic, only needs someone to run short of gas or have some minor mishap and the whole cavalcade comes to a standstill, a sitting duck target for anything showered down from the planes overhead. Moreover evacuating the aged and sick would probably finish many off in any case.

Few houses do not have basements. Why not spend some of the cost of the meetings and conventions (usually in distant parts of the country) in showing people how to use their basements for shelter and what to store for the days they must stay in them? We have been told that below the surface there is a chance of survival. Even if the basement plan were not perfect the old and sick would at least die in less stark surroundings than some rain-soaked field with no privacy or comfort that even a basement would supply.

Noise and confusion and having to leave their homes is worse than death to many an old person. Wandering homeless does not seem to be the solution to the problem. After all the ancient admonition may still be the best as they so often are. "Enter into thy closets my people and shut thy doors until this calamity be overpast."

What Remedy?

Re Mrs. Burchill's letter in answer to Mr. Frank Partridge and union demands. Does Mrs. Burchill believe that increases in wages do not increase prices?

I would also like her to answer the main point in Mr. Partridge's letter and tell what remedy she would employ to settle a strike when the dispute is deadlocked? I presume she, like the rest of the CCF, is against arbitration?

Ottawa to Be Nicer To Nation's Taxpayers

OTTAWA (UPI)—The ordinary taxpayer will be given more courtesy by the taxation division and the service will brighten up its public relations, Revenue Minister George Nowlan said yesterday.

Speaking on estimates of his department, which were passed by the Commons, Nowlan said that while in opposition he had been very critical of the public relations of the taxation division.

"It was my feeling, and it is my feeling, that in their zeal for efficiency they have sometimes tended to lose sight of the individual and I think there is a natural pressure to look upon taxpayers en masse as impersonal people.

"Perhaps it is difficult or impossible to look upon them as individual persons, but I still think something in that direction can be accomplished," he added.

Nowlan said he has held conferences with senior officials of the division on these issues "and I think that real progress has been made, or at least I hope so."

"I have at least told my officials that progress should be made in that direction and I know they are attempting to make, and I believe have made, some effective changes," he said.

Nowlan went on to praise the efficiency of the department in general and said he was pleased "so little has ever happened which could reflect in any way to any dereliction of duty on the part of the thousands of officials of the division."

In Traffic Death

Coroner Said 'Manslaughter' But Jury Said 'Accident'

City coroner Dr. E. C. Hart disagreed with a verdict of "accidental death," returned yesterday by a jury following an inquest into the road death of a Vancouver sea captain.

After evidence had been heard from six witnesses, and before the jury retired to consider its verdict, Dr. Hart said he did not think a verdict of accidental death would be appropriate under the circumstances.

'EITHER APPLICABLE'

He said a verdict of death by manslaughter or through culpable neglect would be applicable.

After the jury returned its verdict, Dr. Hart commented: "I can't agree with you, but that is neither here nor there."

The inquest was into the death Friday night of Capt. William Boyce, an employee of the B.C. Pilotage Authority. Two other Pilotage employees who were in the car, Capt. Patrick Morrison and Capt. John McKay, were injured in the Aug. 21 crash.

The fatal accident occurred near the intersection of Douglas Street and the Island Highway.

Witnesses told the jury the car containing the three men was travelling between 60 and 70 miles an hour, along Douglas toward downtown Victoria.

The jury was told the car was driven through the stop sign at Douglas and the Island Highway at speed, failed to make the turn and smashed into a light standard.

Ronald Hodge, 590 Boleskine, who saw the accident from his home, phoned Saanich police and then helped rescue the three men from the tangled wreckage.

He said it appeared there were only two men in the smashed car at first glance, but they later found the third man hidden by a seat.

Dr. E. L. McNiven gave evidence that Capt. Boyce died as a result of a fractured skull, a fractured pelvis and deep shock.

Summing up, Dr. Hart told the jury the reason for the accident was immaterial. "The evidence is clear that the car was driven through the stop sign at a deplorable rate of speed," he said.

Britain to Build Own 'Nautilus'

Great Britain will build atomic submarines and is now "considering" going into the earth satellite field.

This disclosure was made by Aubrey Jones, minister of supply in the British cabinet, who visited here briefly yesterday.

One of the items included in the pact with the U.S. to share nuclear secrets, he said, was information dealing with the construction of atomic submarines such as the Nautilus which recently crossed the north pole under the ice.

HAVE INTENTION -

"There would be no point for the exchange of such information if there was no intention on our part of building such subs," said Mr. Jones.

As far as a British "sputnik" was concerned, Mr. Jones said that to enter such a field entails to some extent a diversion from the military effort.

But, he added, the subject was being considered now.

"It may well have considerable scientific value," he said, referring to satellites, "and we are weighing one against the other—the scientific value as against the military value. All I can say is that it's being looked at."

Mr. Jones is on his way home to England following a visit to Australia and New Zealand. While in Australia he saw the Woomera rocket range, which he classed as "the best in the Western world—we don't quite know what goes on in the Eastern world."

While at Woomera, in Central Australia, he saw some of the acceptance trials of the RAF's new surface-to-air guided missile, the "Bloodhound."

Mr. Jones said that one of the projects now under way in England included development of the Fairey Rotodyne, a revolutionary aircraft which takes off and lands like a helicopter and which flies like a normal plane.

IDEAL FOR HERE

It was suggested that this plane, which can carry 50 passengers, would be ideal for short flights between cities such as Victoria and Vancouver and would be able to cut out the lengthy journeys from the airports to the centre of the cities.

Ships Rerouted to U.S.

Strike Diverts Trade

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eight ships due to dock in Vancouver this week have been diverted to Seattle because of the B.C. longshoremen's strike.

A ninth vessel, from Australia, was expected to be rerouted to the United States port last night, the Sun says.

It says transport of incoming and outgoing cargoes between here and Seattle has been complicated by the U.S. Pacific coast teamsters' strike and an embargo has been put on rail shipments from the prairies to prevent elevators here filling up.

The U.S. teamsters' strike has resulted in a heavy increase in rail traffic, creating further problems in transporting cargoes between Seattle and Vancouver. The Great Northern Railway, which connects the two cities, said Wednesday its freight business has increased threefold.

The embargo on grain shipments was reported to have gone into effect Friday. Loaded boxcars still were arriving from the prairies but these had been dispatched before Friday.

Pacific Elevators Limited reported their space filled to capacity but other companies said they still have room for more grain.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union called a strike Thursday of 1,300 longshoremen at five B.C. ports in a dispute over pensions and hours of work.

Lord Rowallan Here Oct. 13

Africans Doomed For Blood Medicine

NASERU, Basutoland (AP) — Seven Africans were sentenced to death by the Basutoland High Court yesterday for medicine murder.

The prosecution alleged they waylaid an African boy, Xolahlawi Mohapi, last October, and mutilated and bled him to obtain medicine for a chief who himself was on trial for medicine murder at the time.

Faubus Holding Ace of Trumps

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Defiant Arkansas lawmakers approved with but one dissenting vote yesterday bills empowering Gov. Orval Faubus to shut down any public school faced with Negro integration.

The legislation was assured of final passage today. It will be on the governor's desk when the U.S. Supreme Court meets to hear arguments on whether to set aside a delay of integration at Little Rock's Central High School.

MOTH FAMILY

There are 140,000 species of [illegible] order Lepidoptera.

Faubus said he had not yet decided whether to sign it into law immediately or wait to see if the Supreme Court might uphold the integration delay in Little Rock.

"I don't have much hope," he said. "I doubt if the Supreme Court is [illegible] mistake."

Going Dad's Way

Farrel Faubus, 19, son of Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas, announced that he will transfer from integrated Arkansas Tech at Russellville to segregated Little Rock University. He said the change had nothing to do with integration.

* * *

Ike Denies Policy Reversal

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said yesterday he may have told friends he believes the rate of integration of Negroes in public schools should be slowed down.

But the president denied at a press conference that he ever said he wishes the Supreme Court had not ruled in 1954 in favor of school integration.

Eisenhower also said in effect that the justice department will take part in arguments before the Supreme Court today on the school integration crisis at Little Rock, Ark.

The president also declared the consequences will be terrible if some states close their public schools in an effort to block court-ordered mixing of the white and Negro races.

Closing the schools under such circumstances would result in a whole basketful of litigation, Eisenhower said.

Siamese Twins in Triplet Birth

LONDON (Reuters) — The wife of a suburban London bank manager gave birth May 2 to Siamese twin sons joined at the head and a third boy, it was disclosed yesterday.

Parents of the triplets are Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Thackeray of Twickenham. They had maintained secrecy about the births.

The twins, Peter and Timothy, are in the hospital pending a specialist's decision on whether to attempt to separate them.

Jeremy, the third son, normal and in good health, is being cared for by his mother at home.

The twins were removed from Queen Charlotte's Hospital in suburban Hammersmith after about six weeks for specialized treatment at another hospital.

RCAF Handed to NORAD

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF's air defence forces in Canada have been formally committed to the operational control of North American Defence command (NORAD), it was learned yesterday. These forces comprise nine jet interceptor squadrons and radar networks.

The allocation was carried out by cabinet order-in-council No. 952 passed July 7, 1958.

The order-in-council has not been published but appears in the summary of July orders tabled this week in the Commons.

The order also confirms the May 12 exchange of notes between Canada and the United States setting out the principles under which NORAD operates, and the interim arrangements made between Defence Minister Pearkes and U.S. Defence Secretary Neil McElroy Aug. 1, 1957, for NORAD operation.

It also confirms the appointments of U.S. Air Force General Earle Partridge and RCAF Air Marshal Roy Slemon as commander and deputy commander, respectively of NORAD, which has its headquarters at Colorado Springs.

Woolworth's Bigger, Better

Arranged for Convenience

Improvements are all designed for the customer in the enlarged Victoria store of F. W. Woolworth Co., Ltd., at Douglas and View.

Extended sideways to encompass the former premises of Francis, Jewelers, and Mallek's store, and back into the old Colonist building, Woolworth's new store features self-service.

Where purchases formerly were made at each counter, the customer now takes shopping bag or cart, waiting for his use, and takes as much or as little time as he wishes to shop. Then he—or she—pays for all at one of nine checkout stations near the doors.

Many store departments have been enlarged, and some new ones added for Victoria buyers.

One of these is the bakery shop, just inside the Douglas Street windows—and by the way, the store has almost entirely dispensed with window displays.

Current enlargement is the third major move for the store in Victoria. First was original establishment in 1912 on Government. Second was purchase of the present property in 1923.

Managers over the years have included E. Christenson, R. Hennessey, H. L. Phillips, W. G. Crawford, R. G. Bridle and the present manager, since 1950, E. A. Hobbs.

Mr. Bridle, now living at Toronto as supervisor of new Canadian stores, is in Victoria to set up these new quarters.

"Back to School" means many things . . .

● TO MOTHER it means the busiest shopping tour of the year. New sweaters, socks and shoes . . . a new windbreaker for Joe . . . a larger jacket for Jane . . . how those children grow! Scribblers and schoolbags . . . pencils and rulers . . . it's like equipping a young army!

● IT MEANS, too, the building up of little bodies for the rigours of winter. Nourishing hot breakfasts . . . with delicious freshly squeezed orange juice followed by steaming oatmeal.

● IT MEANS the schooltime lunch box with its hot vacuum bottle of soup, its nourishing sandwiches, crisp cookies . . . and always of course, a fresh colourful Sunkist Orange . . . for Vitamin C and the many benefits an orange contains.

The School Lunch

At noon, children turn to their lunch boxes for energy to continue the day. Therefore, lunch box foods should be rich in protein and food energy. And for the important Vitamin C and the Bio-flavonoids, always include a fresh Sunkist Orange. Children love Sunkist Oranges, and this colourful fruit is so good for them.

Put a Sunkist (Trade Mark Registered) ORANGE in every lunch box!

NO. 218—HUNDREDTH YEAR | VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 28, 1958 | SECOND NEWS SECTION

Mayor Surprised at Hees Letter

'It's News to Us'

Mayor Percy Scurrah was surprised yesterday by Transport Minister Hees' statement that the province will have to re-route the Patricia Bay Highway before the airport runways can be extended.

"This is the first indication I've had that the provincial government is expected to move the highway," Mayor Scurrah said. "I have always assumed that it was part of the runway improvement and therefore a federal responsibility."

Mr. Hees said in a letter to Hugh Stephen, president of the chamber of commerce, that runway lengthening would have to wait for "action by other parties, such as the province of British Columbia and the town of Sidney in the matter of diverting the highway around the end of the main runway."

Meanwhile highways department officials said that the federal government had never advised the provincial government that a re-routing of Patriacia Bay Highway was necessary before the runways could be extended.

"It's the first we've heard of it," they said.

Mr. Gaglardi recently wrote to the federal government asking when the work would be started on the runways and so far has not received a reply.

Can't Afford It, Says Official

BCE to Oppose Delay Of Bus Fare Hearing

Area Wants Time To Conduct Probe

B.C. Electric Company will oppose the delay sought by the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee in the Public Utilities Commission hearing of its application for bus fare increases.

The hearing in Victoria is scheduled to begin Sept. 8. The intermunicipal committee decided Tuesday to seek a two-month delay so it could look into the advisability of public ownership of the bus service.

"The company will very definitely oppose any delay in the hearing," Mark Trueman, transit operations manager in Victoria, said yesterday. "We can't afford a delay."

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

Yesterday saw these other developments in the bus situation:

Utilities committee of city council met BCE officials for 2½ hours, questioned them about finances, but ended the meeting without recommendations or a report to make to council.

Vancouver city council invited other Lower Mainland municipalities to join it in opposing any sale of the B.C. Electric bus system. Vancouver maintained that the power and transit systems should continue to be operated as a single unit whether under public or private enterprise.

CONSIDER REQUEST

PUC chairman Dr. H. M. Angus said the commission would consider the request for postponement of the Victoria hearing when the BCE case is presented Sept. 8, and also would consider "very closely and thoroughly," when and if presented, any application for sale of the bus system.

At the meeting of city council utilities committee and BCE officials, figures were submitted, which transit manager H. R. Halls said "indicate quite clearly what brought us to this point: the wage scale has continued to rise, the number of passengers has continued to fall, and we are still operating on 1952 fares."

Wage scale for bus drivers, he admitted to Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, was higher than elsewhere in Canada, but so were wage scales in general in B.C.

HIGHER THAN VICTORIA

At the same time, Mr. Halls said, fares in other cities in Canada with only one or two exceptions were higher than in Victoria.

Ald. Edgelow observed that in the BCE operations, the bus system was being subsidized by the users of electricity, but Mr. Trueman disagreed.

At present, Mr. Trueman said, the bus system was being subsidized by BCE shareholders.

The PUC had ruled some years ago that 6½ per cent was a fair overall rate of return on the company's utilities, he said. Because the company was making less than that profit, the shareholders were subsidizing the bus system, he maintained.

REDUCED RETURN

"The loss," he said, "is being made up in a reduced return to shareholders."

He used the same argument later when Ald. Edgelow suggested that the rates of electricity should be reduced if the money-losing bus system were sold.

The electricity rates, he maintained, couldn't be reduced "until we get to the point where the return approaches 6½ per cent." At present, he said, he believed the overall return was about 5.2 per cent.

City Urges:

Unite Parks Boards

City council parks committee proposed yesterday that council put before the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee the question of integrating the whole area's park development.

Ald. M. H. Mooney, chairman, said his idea was that a Greater Victoria parks group of council members, appointed for terms of five years, if in office that long, should manage the parks and carry out development with money supplied by a uniform tax rate—perhaps three mills—in all four municipalities.

Mayor Percy Scurrah, however, later said he would oppose this idea.

He said he was "not in favor of another body that can demand tax money and spend it independently of elected representatives' control."

When any municipality put up three mills of taxes, he said, it was a "cinch" that it would insist on the money being spent within its borders.

"If Saanich hasn't seen fit to appropriate much money for parks," the mayor said, "that's their business, not ours."

Council To Say Thanks

Parks committee asked city council yesterday to send a letter of congratulations to The Daily Colonist and Mrs. Marjorie Naysmith on the Colonist swimming classes.

"They should be sent a letter of congratulation on the service rendered to the young people of Greater Victoria, and of appreciation of their efforts in this wonderful job," said Ald. M. H. Mooney, parks chairman.

The committee also asked council to send a letter to Esquimalt council and the Kinsmen Club on their development of the Kinsmen Gorge Park.

"A great deal of effort and thought have been put into it," Ald. Mooney said. "The very highest congratulations should go to them."

Coal Production Drops on Island

Vancouver Island coal production dropped heavily last month as the demand for coal in industry continued to fall off.

Production in July was 7,667 tons as against 9,259 tons in the same month a year ago.

Nov. 19 School Holiday

British Columbia children have been promised a special school holiday even before they get back to school next month.

It has been decided that Douglas Day, on Nov. 19, will be a holiday for school children throughout the province in commemoration of the 100th birthday of the founding of the mainland colony of B.C.

It will not be a general holiday.

Meanwhile a tentative itinerary for Governor-General Vincent Massey shows he will arrive in Victoria Thursday, Nov. 21 and will attend a state luncheon here that evening.

Safety Starts Sept. 3

"Operation Safety" begins Sept. 3 when 20,000 Greater Victoria children return to school, John Lund, president of the Greater Victoria and District Safety Council, said last night.

And safety on the roads is the responsibility of everyone, motorists, cyclists and pedestrians alike, he added.

"Courtesy plays an important part in everyday life, particularly on the road," Mr. Lund pointed out. "Give the other fellow a break when schools open and keep it up for an accident-free winter."

Greater Victoria's 60,000 drivers should take greater care on the road and the students should do their part.

Duncan Ready To Celebrate

DUNCAN — Everything is in readiness here for the big centennial carnival and dance which will be held Saturday evening in the Cowichan curling rink.

Under joint auspices of the Zenith-Gyro Club and the Exhibition planning board, the dance is intended to raise funds to help launch the Cowichan Exhibition in its new location in 1959.

This year, the annual three-day show had to be cancelled because a drive for funds fell short of the objective needed to move the exhibition to Pioneer Park, when the show's lease on Indian reserve lands was cancelled.

Two orchestras will be on hand to keep things moving at a fast clip. The Victoria "Hometowners" and Duncan's "Rockets" will relieve each other. There will be square dancing, rock 'n' roll and modern dancing.

Among special attractions will be costume and spot dances and valuable door prizes. Carnival games will be running full blast, and a refreshment stand will be operated on the mezzanine floor of the rink.

NANAIMO—Two new water districts may come into being in the Nanaimo area as a result of the prolonged heat wave this summer.

Water shortage has hit Cedar, Chase River and the Nanaimo River area. Many residents are buying hauled water for $5 per 500 gallons.

There has been no shortage in the city, however, where sprinkling has gone on unchecked due to the unlimited supply from the South Forks reservoir.

A new 30-inch steel pipeline was opened last year following the $2,000,000 South Forks dam project completed by the Greater Nanaimo Water Board.

TOFINO — Three local businessmen plan to open a new hardware store here about Sept 1. They are Robert Wingen, Jack Walter and Robert Douglass.

PORT ALBERNI — Tahsis Company sawmill, temporarily closed by order of Mayor Loran Jordon, is expected to reopen under a plan for protecting nearby homes from the hazard of flying sparks.

At council meeting Monday night, the mayor explained that he had ordered closure of operations after receiving a barrage of complaints from householders of Kingsway South. Three homes in the area were destroyed recently in a fire which, the mayor said, could not be proven to have resulted from a Tahsis mill spark. However, residents of Kingsway claimed they were afraid to go to sleep at night for fear of fire, Mayor Jordon said.

A formula has been worked out by which three men will be employed on a round the clock spark-watching patrol, during the present heat wave, with the city undertaking the payment of one man's wages. Subject to approval of company officials, the plan would permit the mill to re-open.

Sooke Forced to Cut Costs

Tots to Tramp Miles

SOOKE — A number of students of Sooke School District 62 who have been riding school buses will have to walk or find other transportation this year.

A 15 per cent increase in school population and education department policy on cost sharing of transportation costs has forced the move, trustees said.

The department shares cost of transportation of students "entitled to ride" but sets limits on the distance from school.

This year children in Grades 1 to 3 who live within 2½ miles of school and Grades 4 to 12 students within three miles will no longer be able to ride the school buses.

Parents are also asked to check the advertisements in local newspapers for changes in bus routes as 2,300 students prepare to return to the district's 10 elementary and two junior-senior high schools.

The students will report at 9 a.m., Wednesday, Sept. 3, and will put in a full day.

Provinces Split 'Pot'

By JIM TAYLOR

Two poker-faced Scots from Burnaby put on a great display of pressure bowling yesterday and brought the Canadian lawn bowling doubles title to British Columbia for the fourth straight year.

Tom and Graham Jarvis completed the five-game round robin with a perfect record at the annual G & W championships, finishing with a convincing 26-11 win over John Martin and Jack Anderson of Alberta in a tie-breaking final round.

Neil Salkeld of Ontario won the singles title with a 5-0 record in the competition, and Bill Calder's Manitoba foursome came from behind to take rinks honors.

The Jarvis brothers had defeated Ernie Comming and Stan Hewlett of Saskatchewan, 27-15, in the fourth round, while the Alberta twosome was taking the measure of Pep Young and Harry Coles of Quebec, 23-15.

That set up a fifth-round meeting that provided some of the tightest bowling in the three-day tournament. The Jarvis brothers, speaking to each other only occasionally and giving each other instructions by hand signals, built up a 12-11 lead after 15 ends in a see-saw affair.

SHOT AFTER SHOT

Then they began to hit the jack with shot after shot, scoring three on the 16th and hitting for a six-ender on the 17th. They got one in the 18th and four more in the 19th before the Alberta entry conceded.

Salkeld, beaten out in last year's final, got an argument from John Henderson of Quebec in the fourth round. Henderson, who could have tied him with a win at that point, was trailing, 20-19, on the 29th end.

He moved the jack with his last shot to lay one, but Salkeld came in with a perfect last shot to move it even further and wrap up the match.

Salkeld went on to beat Ed Brown of Manitoba 21-11, in the fifth round and Henderson knocked off Joe Stout of Alberta, 23-17.

Eagles' Young Righthander Comes Through with Win

By GARTH WILTON

Manager Art Worth gambled on Jim Boudreau last night and the relatively untried young righthander responded by pitching six-hit ball for seven innings as Eagles defeated Naval Vets, 6-3, in the opening game of their best-of-three Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League semi-final.

Boudreau weakened in the eighth inning, loading the bases with only one out, and 17-year-old Steve Bishop came on to pitch the final two innings.

Worth, who won five and lost none during the regular season, will now have both himself and Bishop ready for the second game of the series Friday night. Bishop, a hard-throwing righthander, has a 5-4 won-lost record.

Eagles backed Boudreau's eight-strikeout pitching with a 12-hit attack against righthander Howie Reid, who went the distance for Naval Vets.

Catcher Jim Moody went four-for-five, beating out two perfectly-placed bunts, lining a single to left and driving a long double to right-centre. Centre-fielder Larry McPherson had a single and a double in five trips while Barry Harvey connected for a two-run triple in three tries for the winners.

Don Bell, with a pair of singles in three trips, was the only Naval Vet batter to get more than one base hit. Ron Peskett had a double in two trips and scored a pair of runs.

He scored his second run in the sixth, stealing home to tie the score 2-2 after walking, stealing second and moving to third when the catcher threw the ball into centre field.

Eagles broke the tie with one run in the bottom of the sixth and added three more in the seventh with a four-hit barrage, including two doubles and a triple.

Wakeman & Trimble, who finished in first place, will be trying to square their best-of-seven series when they meet Pearce Electric tonight at Royal Athletic Park at 6:30. Pearce won the opener, 4-2, Tuesday night.

Only Guided Parties May Hunt for Game

Recreation and Conservation minister Earle C. Westwood, who confirmed yesterday that a serious forest fire situation has forced a province-wide postponement of B.C.'s hunting season, said that one exception would be made.

This is in the case of licensed registered guides who will be allowed to conduct hunting parties within the province other than in the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island

"Presence of the licensed guides in the woods is considered an added safety precaution as most of them have had experience in fighting fires," Mr. Westwood said.

Vereb 'In Reserve'

Lions Keep Imports

B.C. Lions, hoping for a change of fortune at Winnipeg tonight, named their 12 import players as required by Western Conference regulations Wednesday night but at the same time announced they are keeping all 17 Americans on the payroll for the time being.

Lions were given extra time to declare their imports as a result of the firing Tuesday night of head coach Clem Crowe. The Lions will be seeking their first win in four games with Vic Lindskog and Walt Schlinkman guiding the club.

End Howie Schnellenberger and halfback Ed Vereb, who joined the club Sunday and saw action in Monday night's game against Calgary were not included among the 12 imports.

Schnellenberger, Vereb and centre Pete Brown will join spare quarterback Bob Winters and the injured Ed Enos on the reserve list. Any one of the five players on the reserve list may be called up if the Lions utilize any of the seven changes they are allowed between now and Oct. 15.

Lions were the last of the five Western Conference clubs to declare their imports.

Calgary Stampeders announced their import list earlier yesterday and showed quarterback strength retaining imports Cotton Davison from Baltimore Colts and ex-B.C. Lion Maury Duncan to help Nobby Wirkowski, veteran pilot who became a "Canadian" on Tuesday.

Saskatchewan Roughriders have kept Frank Tripucka on the reserve list in the hopes that he will be recovered from a shoulder separation before the end of the season.

B.C. Lions—Quarterback George Herring (Mississippi); halfbacks Jon Cannon (UCLA), Pete Williams (Villanova), Lou Sabo (Arizona State), Terrence St. Bates (Washington State), Don Vass (Ohio State); centre Ed Sharkey (Texas); guard Chuck Hunsinger (Michigan), Tommy Hudson (Louisiana Tech), tackles Curt Rucca (U. of California), Urban Henry (Georgia Tech); ends Hugh Campbell (U. of Toledo), Jerry Hill (Louisiana State).

Reserves—Halfback Ed Vereb and Howard Schnellenberger; quarterback Bob Winters, centre Pete Brown, tackle Ed Enos.

Edmonton Eskimos—Quarterback Jackie Parker (Mississippi State); halfbacks Jo Bob Smith (Houston), Fred Mowers (Michigan State); fullbacks Johnny Bright (Drake); centre Don Stephenson (Georgia Tech); guard Art Walker (Mississippi); tackles Roger Nelson (Oklahoma), Ed Gray (Oklahoma), Tom Townson (Oklahoma); ends Bill Walker (Maryland), Joe Mobra (Louisiana State); halfback Jim Letcavits (Texas).

Winnipeg Blue Bombers — Quarterback Kenny Ploen (Iowa); halfbacks Lou Yary (Toronto College), John Yarmuth (U. of Miami, Fla.), fullback Charlie Shepard (North Texas State); centre Hal Whitley (Texas A. & M.); guards Dave Burkholder (Minnesota), Herb Gray (U. of Texas); tackles Garland Warren (North Texas State), Bob Roberts (Minnesota); Frank Rigney (Iowa); ends Ernie Pitts (Denver), Frank Gilliam (Iowa State).

Reserves—Quarterback Jim Van Pelt (Michigan), halfback Bob McNamara (Minnesota) and linebacker Pete Manjum (Mississippi).

Saskatchewan Roughriders—Quarterback Al Dorow (Baltimore Colts); fullback Cookie Gilchrist (Hamilton, Tx.Colt), fullbacks Bobby Marlow (Alabama), Jack Hill (Utah State), Mike Hagler (Iowa); centres Kurt Burris (Oklahoma), Don Jacyk (Michigan State); guard Ed Sloan (Tennessee), tackles George Beloti (Green Bay Packers), Jerry Cornelison (Southern Methodist); ends Ken Carpenter (Oregon State), Larry Isbell (Baylor).

Reserves — Quarterback Frank Tripucka (Notre Dame); halfbacks Bob Mulgado (Arizona State), and Vernon Vaugh (Maryland State).

Fisheries Expert Makes Test

Record 'Coho' Really Spring

By JIM TANG

A 34-pound salmon caught off Little River last Thursday by George "Jock" Smith of Courtenay and identified as a world-record coho when it was entered in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest at the Little River Fishing Camp was actually a spring salmon.

That was the definite opinion expressed yesterday by Reg Bolton, chief chemist of the Department of Fisheries at Vancouver, after he had tested a jar of the salmon which was bottled within a few hours after it had been caught.

Attempts were made as soon as the fish was brought in to have it examined by Department of Fisheries officials but when none was immediately available, the fish was taken home by J. W. "Jack" Thompson of Seattle, who was fishing with Smith at the time, and Mrs. Thompson wasted no time in putting the fish into jars.

Nobody involved seemed to realize at the time the news value of a record-size coho and that failure of positive identification by a biologist almost certainly meant that the salmon would not be accorded official recognition as a world record coho by a sports fisherman.

Efforts to find the head or tail of Smith's fish to help in making a possible official identification proved fruitless but Mrs. Thompson consented to give up a jar of the cooked salmon.

It was sent to Mr. Bolton, who said that an opinion could be formed by testing the refractive index (the amount that light is bent entering any medium) of the oil.

The refractive index of the oil from a coho salmon is considerably higher than that of a spring salmon. Spring salmon show a refractive index ranging between 1.4700 and 1.4739, with the average about 1.4725, while oil from a coho salmon ranges between 1.4747 and 1.4776, with an average of about 1.4770.

Tests of the fish caught by Smith showed the refractive index to be 1.4733.

"There is no doubt in our minds that this is a spring salmon," Bolton told The Daily Colonist yesterday after completing the test. "Never before have we encountered a coho salmon which tested so low."

Current world record for a coho salmon taken by an angler, and recognized by the International Game Fish Association, is 31 pounds. The coho was caught in Cowichan Bay during October, 1947, by Mrs. Patricia Hallberg of Victoria.

On Aug. 19, Walker W. Campbell, a 72-year-old fisherman who lives at 1740 Fort Street, was credited with a 32-pound coho, which he caught off Secretary Island, which is off Sooke.

Walker, however, is the holder of a commercial fishing licence and was fishing commercially at the time, and while he made his catch on rod and reel, there is little chance that it will be accepted as a new sports record.

Mounties Still 'Alive' In PCL Pennant Race

Vancouver Mounties climbed back into contention in the Pacific Coast League pennant race last night, defeating the second-place San Diego Padres, 5-3, to move within three and one-half games of the league-leading Phoenix Giants.

Phoenix dropped a 5-0 decision to Salt Lake City.

Giants End Losing Skein With Win Over Braves

San Francisco's Giants broke an eight-game losing streak against the Milwaukee Braves last night by edging the National League pace-setters, 3-2, in a 12-inning thriller when Bob Trowbridge walked Orlando Cepeda to force in the winning run.

Giants, who had lost three straight in the current series with the Braves, failed to gain ground on the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates, who romped to a 14-1 victory over St. Louis Cardinals with a great display of power.

Pirates clubbed three home runs and three doubles in an 18-hit assault on five St. Louis pitchers. A brilliant relief stint by Vern Law, who set 14 Redbirds down in order before Stan Musial doubled with one out in the ninth inning, helped the cause.

Tumult Continues

Printing Bureau Probe Called 'McCarthy Tactic'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons committee committee erupted Wednesday into a new uproar amid charges of "McCarthyism" plus a Liberal boycott of some of the sessions.

As the Commons committee pursued its acrimonious probe into the government printing bureau's $6,000,000 contract it heard some of the rough language of its long session.

The day's episode of Parliamentary Hill's big social sideshow brought scenes of Republican [illegible] and Democratic [illegible].

Progressive Conservative Gerry Hatfield Wood, M.P. member for Vancouver East, went so far as to get that same conservative [illegible] were using tactics like those of the late Communist-hunting Senator Joseph McCarthy of United States.

Meanwhile Liberals abstained almost entirely from the committee's sessions after Liberal Leader Pearson announced a boycott on the grounds that members could not effectively attend to their duties in the committee with all the committee meetings [illegible].

Heroes' Welcome

Quarter of a million cheering New Yorkers and Brooklyns yesterday welcomed Lt.-Cmdr. William R. Anderson, above, and crew of atom submarine Nautilus who were given ticker-tape reception. Parade [illegible] Nautilus [illegible] passed under bridge [illegible] Bronx.

Fire Relief Tonight?

The worst fire season the [illegible] British Columbia Forest Service has ever experienced increased by 32 fires in 24 hours to 9 a.m. yesterday may get some relief tonight or early Friday.

A weather system that was spreading rain over the station Papa weatership about 1,200 miles out in the Pacific yesterday is expected to extend to the south coast of Vancouver Island today.

It will bring showers here to Vancouver Island district. It [illegible] clouds all Vancouver Island [illegible] said today will be mostly yesterday the light rain that persisted [illegible]

A trough of [illegible] turbulence from the west had brought showers, generally from one [illegible] to three or four [illegible] inches to the southern part of Vancouver Island, the southern Gulf Islands and the southern mainland yesterday.

These areas mainly form the Vancouver Forest district. It [illegible] clouds all Vancouver Island [illegible] said today will be mostly yesterday the light rain that persisted [illegible]

The rain [illegible] and [illegible] welcome indeed.

"But it is really going to take a downpour to help the district. We need a solid two inches of rain before any closure can be lifted," he said.

The rain [illegible] to help the [illegible] but [illegible] conditions will [illegible] the air along with [illegible] lower temperatures.

People Tend to Marry In Own Neighborhood

* * *

MONTREAL (CP) — If cupid has wings, he can't fly very far. So says Dr. Luigi Cavalli Sforza of Parma Italy, after studying the population structure of a northern Italian diocese of 300,000 people.

People he found tend to marry within their own social class. Their study had shown boy-and-girl falling in love as mysteriously as comets or planets in outer space.

His viewpoint was chiefly [illegible] genetic engineering by people to [illegible]

Sack Isn't Dead Merely Changed

PARIS (Reuters) — Baron Nolde Bagenga retains exclusive rights to the sack in his winter collection shown to the press Wednesday.

The new sack comes in defiance of the high waistline, suggesting a bosomy effect through yoke treatment, and keeps hemlines up to knee length.

The basic shape remains loose but gives a more defined indication of the body underneath. Baron Bagenga's coat treatments star the baron's red coat dress cut like a smock or chemise.

He does them with deep-set flat yokes and fullness gathered into a horizontal line across the ribcage with big bone buttons from neck to hem. Dress [illegible]

Couple to Be Sentenced

Shoplifting Teamwork Before Court

A married couple who worked as a team in an attempt to shoplift goods worth $47.95 from a city store Aug. 19 will be sentenced in city police court Saturday.

Also Barraclough, the store Road, denied the charge of theft under the value of $50 but a wife, Grace Ilene, pleaded guilty to the charge. It was [illegible] guilty to Magistrate A. E. Thomas, following evidence given by one of a store staff. He told the court Mrs. Barraclough put other items in the bag before leaving the store. Mrs. Barraclough then paid for the goods in the bag.

Mrs. Carol Hughes, another employee of the store, told the court she saw Mrs. Barraclough take articles from a counter and put them in a bag. She said she saw Mrs. Barraclough take another item and put it in the bag after she received the goods she had paid for.

Mrs. G. T. Knott, a store detective, said she saw Mrs. Barraclough take articles from a counter and put them in a bag. She said she saw Mrs. Barraclough put other items in the bag before leaving the store. Mrs. Barraclough then paid for the goods in the bag.

Meeting Arranged

Big Thrill

Solarium Moves Today

Today is moving day for patients and staff of the Queen Alexandra Solarium for crippled children from the old Mt. Bay quarters to a sterling new estate planned in the green outskirts of Victoria.

The 83 patients, two of them in body casts, will make the approximate 5-mile trip in two special buses with staff members in attendance to look after their needs en route.

DRIVE A THRILL

The drive over the Malahat is to take place for the young patients will be made slowly and carefully and buses will not exceed 30 miles per hour between Mt. Bay and the new 45-acre site off Arbutus Road near the shore of Georgia Strait.

Weeks of planning have preceded the actual moving of the children and hospital authorities were confident last night the program was all timed so "we can be settled at Mt. Bay and have lunch at the new hospital without any hitch."

ALL READY

Most of the non-patient staff and equipment was moved earlier and yesterday a bus staff supervised the final moving of all equipment and supplies that would be needed at the Mt. Bay building this morning.

The move came as the Rotary Club of Victoria, in co-operation with the Society for Crippled Children, completed a chapter in the story of CAP, a fund dating back to May 1, 1955.

Some 1,000 crippled children from all over the province and from many points outside B.C. have been treated and encouraged at the solarium.

MANY RECOVER

Many of the youngsters have been discharged as completely well and normal as hands of the surgeon or improved bone or condition and equipped mentally to cope with life despite their handicaps.

More than half of the patients have come from the Mainland.

Expert Cattle Judge at Seven

HOME BUILDERS' COMPLETE SERVICE

LABOR DAY HOLIDAY
Next Monday, Sept. 5, is LABOR DAY HOLIDAY and the last holiday week-end before the fall building starts busy. It's been a wonderful summer at the beach and perhaps you have been putting off those necessary jobs around the home. Take advantage of the holiday to repair gutters, repaint exterior, fix tired lawns. Don't forget to have your orders placed in Thursday.

LOW-COST FOLDING DOOR
The ideal door to use where space is limited. Requires only enough room for door to fold as it opens. Ideal for use in a narrow passageway or hallway. Makes a room appear much larger. Has modern, graceful appearance. Will give years of satisfaction. Easy to operate. Many colors and designs to choose from.
Width opening 32 ... $11.95
Width opening 36 ... $14.95

PLYWOOD CUTTINGS

On and Off Island

Heavy Traffic Due on Weekend

Transportation services here are geared for a heavy rush of holidayers wanting to get on to Vancouver Island this weekend, and a similar crush of those who want to get off.

All services report extra-heavy bookings for the Labor Day weekend that signals the end of school holidays across B.C.

Trans-Canada Air Lines plans 11 extra flights—eight 28-passenger DC3s and three 62-passenger North Stars—for Friday and Monday, the peak days, to and from Vancouver. Six extra DC3 flights are scheduled to Seattle for those days.

Bookings are [illegible] but there is still some space.

"And if there are further demands we can always add flights," an official said.

B.C. Coast Steamship officials advised "making reservations immediately" for already heavily booked sailings. For automobile space, most sailings here and at Nanaimo are fully booked. It was noted that, since the CPR ferry strike, people have become "reservations-conscious."

NO EXTRAS

Black Ball Ferries, operating from Nanaimo to Horseshoe Bay, and Washington State Ferries, between Victoria and Port Angeles and Sidney and Anacortes, are expecting heavy traffic but will not extend schedules.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines will add extra buses as required.

Three Brands Of Beer Withdrawn

Three brands of beer made by Princeton Brewing Company will disappear from the shelves of liquor stores on Vancouver Island, it was announced yesterday.

The company has informed the B.C. Liquor Control Board that it will not ship Old Dublin ale, High Life beer and Royal Export beer, until further notice.

No reason was given for the move but a spokesman for the Liquor Control Board said it certainly did not mean that B.C. was returning to the old system of certain breweries serving certain areas in the province.

Canso Ends Arctic Tour

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCAF Canso, smeared with mud and oil, landed at Vancouver airport Tuesday night at the end of a 9,000-mile tour of Arctic outposts.

Main objective of the two-week flight was to pick up four international geophysical year scientists at Ellesmere Island, within 500 miles of the North Pole. After picking up the scientists, the plane stopped off at Isachsen to rescue an American meteorologist suffering acute appendicitis.

Birth Control Law in U.S. Called Illegal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Laws against contraceptives may be unconstitutional under the first amendment of the U.S. constitution guaranteeing religious freedom, Bishop James A. Pike of the Episcopal Church said Tuesday.

"Our church has put itself on record that family planning is part of Christian obligation," said the bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of California. "A law against birth control now can be said to interfere with an individual's exercise of his religion."

New Stamp Salutes Oil

The importance of petroleum to modern life will be acknowledged Sept. 10 when the post office department will release copies of a new five-cent stamp.

The design of the stamp covers a century with a kerosene lamp symbolizing 1858, when kerosene was virtually the only derivative from crude oil.

Modern progress is represented by a silhouette of an oil "cracking" plant.

New Riots Predicted For Ontario Prison

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The Whig-Standard says a former convict at Collins Bay Penitentiary, released a few days after the Aug. 27 riot, predicts a bigger riot within three months if conditions at the prison do not improve.

Decommissioning Due

Cruiser Ontario Scheduled To Finish Duties Oct. 15

The now outmoded queen of the navy's Pacific Command, veteran training cruiser HMCS Ontario, will be decommissioned Oct. 15.

It will be 13 years since the trim, 11,500-ton cruiser first docked at Esquimalt the morning of Nov. 27, 1945, the third warship of the British Empire to bear the name Ontario and the fifth of her kind to serve with the RCN.

MOST TRAVELLED

The "Big O," as a training cruiser, became the most travelled ship of the RCN, including among her trips visits of 20,000 miles to Australia and New Zealand. Last active RCN cruiser, she was recently declared surplus.

She returns from the Pacific National Exhibition Sept. 2, flying a 380-foot traditional pay-off pennant.

She will be stripped at Esquimalt of all her stores, supplies and equipment that can be used by other ships and establishments here. Equipment peculiar to the Ontario as a cruiser, such as the six-inch guns that are not used by any other Canadian ships, will remain on the vessel.

The Ontario will be paid off to HMC Dockyard and will be up for sale to anyone, scrapping firm or otherwise, that wants to buy her. Officials here said they knew of no offers so far.

MEN DISPERSED

The complement of roughly 650 officers and men will be dispersed here and there. In the next year or year and a half, two new destroyer escorts, probably the Kootenay being built in Vancouver and another being built in Eastern Canada, will be located here, and may take many of the men. Others may add to strength of the newly-formed frigate squadron under Capt. Harry Porter that is taking over the Ontario's training work.

NO CEREMONY

No special decommissioning ceremony is planned. It is not customary.

Capt. J. C. Littler, commanding officer of the Ontario, on Sept. 15 takes over a new position in Ottawa, with the acting rank of commodore, as co-ordinator of the joint staff.

Best-Liked Selections To Be Played

Some of the best-liked pieces of light classical music will be played at the Victoria Symphony Orchestra's free outdoor concert Sept. 7, conductor Hans Gruber said last night.

Program includes Handel's "Largo," the overture to "Oberon" by von Weber, the popular slow movement from Dvorak's "New World" symphony, a Slavonic dance by Dvorak, a Strauss waltz, music from either "Oklahoma" or "South Pacific" and Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory."

Concert is to be held either in front of the legislative buildings or at Beacon Hill Park, and is sponsored by a fund of the Musicians' Federation with assistance from centennial committees.

How to Shrink Your Swollen, Painful Piles
Relieve Itching, Soreness and Pain
without ointments, pile pipes or suppositories
Here is a nice, clean, easy way to shrink or reduce swollen, painful piles without the inconvenience of ointments, pile pipes or suppositories.
The secret is in taking just one small Hem-Roid Tablet, with water, two or three times a day. By effective INTERNAL action this mild but gently persistent medicine eases constipation, helps break up and smoothly pass on hardened intestinal waste, relieves itching, soreness and pain, helps shrink piles and permits them to heal. Hem-Roid is so easy to use, so pleasant and satisfying in giving immediate results hundreds have written their thanks for making this fine medicine available to them.
Why suffer needlessly when Hem-Roid offers you so much? Get a package today. See for yourself how nice, clean and easy it is to use, how pleasantly and effectively it works, how much more comfort is waiting for you. Costs only a few pennies a day if you like it. NO COST otherwise as your money will be cheerfully refunded if you are not 100% pleased. Ask at any drug store for Hem-Roid Internal Pile Treatment.

HOUSEKEEPING ROOMS
Important Notice to Operators
The following is the text of a letter sent out to all known operators in explanation of recent City Council regulations pertaining to Housekeeping Rooms:
To owners of all premises operated partly and wholly for the provision of Housekeeping Rooms:
Dear Sir or Madam:
Re: Registration of Housekeeping Rooms
In explanation of the situation as it now stands concerning housekeeping rooms, it is felt that you should be advised as follows:
Up to the 24th ult July, subject to Section 702 of the Municipal Act, it was mandatory for all housekeeping units or rooms to be authorized by application to the Zoning Board of Appeal and their authorization could only be given after satisfaction of a number of stringent regulations. This resulted in many owners of such premises being reluctant to make the necessary application, and, in consequence, difficulties arose when, sooner or later, alterations became necessary.
The City Council has now ruled that for the purpose of the admission of new units, all the regulations concerning housekeeping rooms will be applied, but in the case of those units existing on the 24th July, 1958, regular registration and authorization will be permitted upon application, subject only to the requirement that the units conform with minimum requirements as to safety and the Regulation of Dwellings By-law.
Subject to the above, this ruling will enable owners who may have been reluctant to obtain authorization before to be able now to do so, without fear of the imposition of the requirement of extensive penalizing alterations.
If you are operating a housekeeping establishment which is not already registered as such, it is to your considerable benefit to take advantage of this opportunity to register, since once your premises are recorded in the Building Division of this Department as authorized for the housekeeping rooms already existing, you will be able to make any necessary minor improvements to them you may desire in the future, subject to normal permit, without fear that to do so will incur the need to bring the units up to the full standards required for new units.
Application forms, to be filled out at the City Hall by the owner in person, are available at the office of the City Engineer, and registrations will be accepted up to September 30 with respect to units existing prior to July 24.
Yours truly,
J. C. GARNETT,
City Engineer.

Plant to Suit Your Soil

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

"Oh, give me a home
With a garden of loam,
Which is moist on a midsummer day;
Where no puddles will lie,
Where no wells will run dry,
As they do upon gravel or clay!"

—"Green Fingers," by Reginald Arkell.

I guess every keen gardener dreams of owning a place where the soil is rich, deep, mellow, fibrous loam, or that lovely reddish-brown stuff they have out on the Saanich Peninsula. Only too often, we have to make do with stiff, sticky clay; poor, gravelly ground, or sandy stuff in which water vanishes instantaneously, as fast as it is applied.

While any less-than-perfect soil can be modified and improved through careful handling and constant feeding with organic litter, the smart gardener will overcome the disabilities of his soil chiefly by selecting and growing only those subjects which will tolerate or prefer his particular kind of ground. And it is amazing what a wide range of desirable plants can be found for even the most extreme kinds of soil.

If your home is sitting in the middle of a stretch of poor, hungry, gravelly soil, you could do a lot worse than plant it up with specimens of Spanish Broom, Spartium junceum. This plant, which goes all fat and lazy when growing in rich soil with very few blooms, will flower like crazy in a sandy or gravelly site in full sun.

In such a site, Spanish Broom makes the kind of shrub which will cause passers-by to stop, look, and gasp. Growing to a height of 8 to 10 feet, the plant will cover itself completely with large, golden-yellow, sweetly-scented pea flowers. If you really want to stop traffic, site it against a background of rather dark evergreen shrubs, where its blossoms will stand out like those new fluorescent paints they use on billboards.

The blooms, each one like a miniature golden sweet pea blossom, are borne on slende., smooth, rush-like stems of dark green which will blend into the background. These green stems function as leaves, doing most of the work of manufacturing nutrients for the roots—the work performed in other shrubs by the foliage. The tiny oval true leaves are very sparse, occurring just here and there at wide intervals along the stems.

Like its cousin, the Gorse, Spanish broom stays in bloom for a remarkably long period of time. The first flowers appear in early June, and by the middle of the month it is going full blast, perfuming the air with its heady scent until early August. And even after the summer flush of bloom is over, the shrub continues to produce a scattering of blossoms well into the fall.

September is a good month for planting, and good specimens can be purchased for around $1.50 each at most good nurseries, or you can raise your own from the bean-like seeds.

If you can't beg a few seeds from a neighbor, they should be available from local seedsmen specializing in English seeds, or you can send directly to Thompson & Morgan, Ipswich, England, where they are priced at one shilling per packet. Sown in pots of sandy soil in a coldframe, these will make shrubs 3 feet tall by this time next year.

The Viewing World

They Cater to Adults

WBAI, one of the innumerable FM stations in the New York area, has acquired its own personality in the last year. A good many stations around New York try to appeal to the intelligent, discriminating listener but most of them do this almost exclusively through news and music. WBAI assaults them with marvellous music, challenging ideas and opinions which are in short supply on radio; radio drama, an art form that has all but disappeared, and esoteric oddities like the sound of the roaring motors and screeching tires of sports cars.

* * *

"We'd like to be the kind of station that people tune to while saying to themselves: 'I wonder what those crazy guys are going to do next'," says Bert Cowlan, program director. "Our main goal is to achieve a listener audience in New York of the intellectually acquisitive sort. We act as a sort of vacuum cleaner, picking up odds and ends of previously dissatisfied listeners from all over.

Actually, we have no model. The closest thing to a model is KPFA in San Francisco, a radio station supported by contributions from its listeners. That means they are non-commercial and therefore have a different set of problems than we do, but we admire their programming and in a sense we intend to go along with them in doing things for a minority audience.

* * *

"We're not self-consciously egghead but we do aim for the Corvette-Thunderbird group, not for the Ford-Chevvie group. For instance, we have a program at 5 o'clock where we call all the theatres and tell our audience how many tickets are available for that night. A housewife might be listening and call her husband and tell him to stop off and pick up two tickets for that night.

Cowlan agrees with Mitch Miller who told the nation's disk jockeys that they had abdicated to the fourteen-year olds. "Radio has sold out to fourteen-years olds. WBAI has tried to get to those people who want something a little higher than the fourteen-year-old fare.

"For instance, we broadcast the Chicago symphony concerts live from Symphony Hall in Chicago on the longest hi-fi transmission in the history of broadcasting. We did two of Van Cliburn's concerts from Moscow on tape before anyone else did. We had the premiere of Shostakovich's Eleventh Symphony last year."

* * *

Music is what Cowlan refers to as the station's carbohydrate; its protein, he says, are its features and these include explosive views of the news, interviews with people in the news including such rare ones as Archbishop Makarios on Cyprus, unusual show records, and tunes and interviews with everyone from Toots Shor to Richard Rodgers, a program called the "Scope and Form of Jazz." Starting next Monday, there will be a weekly program of outspoken humor and opinion. None of these features are unlikely to be found anywhere else.

Cowlan is a former actor and he'd like to see radio drama restored to its high estate. Where else but WBAI could you hear an hour-long dramatization of Aristophanes "The Peace." Or an hour-and-a-half version of C. S. Forester's "The African Queen." Or Jean Paul Sartre's "Nekrassov."

* * *

Among its other coups, WBAI offered the American premiere of Britton's "Noye's Fludde" which is medieval English for "Noah's Flood." The text is one of the ancient Chester miracle plays that have come down from the fourteenth century and WBAI broadcast it on high fidelity tapes made at the Aldeburgh Festival in England.

* * *

The station's coming plans are even larger in the field of international relations. Cowlan just returned from Moscow where he arranged a trade with Moscow Radio.

Opening lead: ◇ 8

South wasn't strong enough to reverse, by bidding his lower-ranking five-card suit ahead of his four-carder. He chose to open with one spade in order to retain a comfortable rebid of two hearts. North's club response steered West off the opening that would have given South the most trouble.

Dummy's diamond queen fell to East's ace and East returned the jack to knock out the king. Declarer led three rounds of hearts, ruffing the third in dummy. But East over-ruffed and cashed the good diamond. Next he knocked out dummy's ace of clubs, leaving South with a heart loser that he could not avoid since East could still over-ruff dummy's highest trump.

South fell for West's false-card of the heart queen on the third heart lead—or perhaps he did not realize the opportunuity for a safety play. Instead of trumping the third heart, South had little to lose by discarding dummy's remaining diamond. Now, even a club shift would be too late.

Dummy wins the club ace and South comes to his hand with a trump to ruff his losing diamond. Another trump puts South back to lead a fourth heart. If East over-ruffs, South remains with two good spades and the long heart. If East lets dummy's eight of trumps hold, South needs only his two high trumps to bring home ten tricks.
